Suppose you walk along an ocean beach and discover a book lying in the sand. Suppose, in examining this book, you discover that it contains a complete copy of The Last Battle by C.S. Lewis. Would you conclude that this book resulted from eons of chance mutations of an original single molecule? This would be a bizarre conclusion wouldn't it?

Yet this is far less bizarre than the modern theory of evolution. Each living creature in existence is incredibly more complex than any book. Those holding to evolutionary theory believe that, given enough time, man could evolve. However, time is actually an enemy to evolutionary theory. The second law of thermodynamics contends that even highly organized things deteriorate, over time, into more random collections of matter. An obvious example of this is the sand castle that a child builds on an ocean beach. Have you ever known one of these to last more than a few hours? Of course not!

In the supposed evolution of organic life, many chance mutations would be needed to achieve the next evolutionary level. During this time, the second law of thermodynamics would be in full force. The "millions of years," that evolutionists claim as an asset, are actually a wrecking ball for the entire theory.

God is the only one who observed and accomplished the entire process of creation. He is the creator. He was and is the triune God, Jehovah. There is no other being, in existence, who has first-hand knowledge of the entire creation process. God describes man's futile attempts to explain Him away.

"For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who hold the truth in unrighteousness; Because that which may be known of God is manifest in them; for God hath shewed it unto them. For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse: Because that, when they knew God, they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful; but became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened. Professing themselves to be wise, they be-
